Be sure to remove watches, rings, or accessories before servicing the machine. Further, do not bring toner into contact with plastic material, as such will initiate chemical reaction. It may explode. The use of direct charging requires less application voltage than conventional corona charging and produces virtually no ozone. The areas on the photosensitive drum which have been exposed this way are called light areas and will later attract toner in step 4 development. The toner has insulating properties and is charged to a negative potential by friction against the cylinder. The excess toner is removed from the photosensitive drum by the positive component of the developing bias and the drum surface potential. If separated completely, the transfer guide would be charged, soiling the transfer guide and ultimately soiling the back of copy paper. Since thin paper has little rigidity, it tends to remain wrapping on the drum. To prevent such a problem, a negative voltage is applied to the separation static eliminator, thereby weakening the static bond between drum and copy paper for better separation.
